

SPECIALISING IN SCREEN PRODUCTION –Those who create and control the messages and the media today will shape the views and values of present and future generations. Let them be followers of the living God, with messages of truth and life. This vision is within our reach. Since 1979, the "Jesus" film* has been watched over 5 billion times worldwide in 800 different languages. As a result, almost 200 million decisions to accept Christ as personal Saviour and Lord have been reported. To see the effect of movies on a culture one only has to look to the incredible impact Mel Gibson's "The Passion of the Christ" made after its release in 2004.

C3 COLLEGE's Screen Production specialisation covers the breadth of creative and technical skills necessary to produce short films and television programs. By the end of the first year, you will make your own television commercial and news story. By the end of the second year, you will complete a music video and a 10-minute dramatic short film suitable for broadcast. In third year you will intern at our on-campus TV studio – CCTV. You will be part of a team that broadcasts to 608 million people every week as well as providing all the video support for the major conferences at Christian City Church Oxford Falls. With these objectives in mind, you will learn to write and direct high impact messages, and to shoot, record, create, and edit quality images and sound.

C3 COLLEGE's Screen Production specialisation is taught by qualified industry professionals who are committed, visionary Christians.
